Dear Joe:

In accordance with our conversations, I am writing to confirm the agreements we reached when, on November 18, 1990, I delivered to you Robert's two Fox Scrapbooks together with a substantial amount of unsorted material belonging to Robert so that the Scrapbooks and the unsorted material could be used and copied as appropriate for the benefit of the Fox Theatre, Atlanta Landmarks, Inc. and their archives.

I understand that you will look after the well-being of the Scrapbooks and the unsorted material so that, when the purpose of these items has been served, they can be returned to me.

Should the Fox Theatre or Atlanta Landmarks, Inc. desire to copy or otherwise use any of the items in the collection I delivered to you, Robert would appreciate their source being referred to as "From The Foreman Collection".

I very much appreciate, as does Robert, your willingness to make sure that all of his Fox collection is protected and treated with the care to which it is entitled.

With kindest regards,

Robert L. Foreman, Jr.

Dear Mr. Foreman,

I am responding to your email of October 2, 2011 to Mr. Carr in which his assistance was sought in order to access the Fox Theatre archives.

I do apologize for the delayed response however, this issue was discussed at our most recent Executive Committee meeting following which I was asked to respond to you. Access to the archives is unfortunately limited and we will not be able to provide you with the information you are seeking.

Hello Mr. Foreman,

Thank you for your interest in the Fox Theatre Archives here at the Fox Theatre.

We do not release these images unless they are used for exhibition purposes at a museum or historical organization.

Thank you,

Leigh
